EDUCATION.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION.

The securing of a valuable site adjoining the Technical College for the extension of technical education marks a distinct advance in the extension of education. Sydney should well be pleased where the site is occupied, and branches in the form of technical schools are established as feeder to the college. But there is an urgent demand for technical education in the country districts. How to meet effectively with that demand is a task best with much difficulty. The securing of a capable teaching staff is at times practically impossible.

Almost all the mining centres are better furnished in technical needs than the agricultural and dairying districts. Mr. J. W. Turner, Director of Technical Education, who has recently returned from an extended tour of the North Island of New Zealand and the inland adjacent country, says that it is impossible to secure a teacher for every town in Tasmania and Armidale. Tamworth has made wonderful growth during the past year, no less than 900 new residents having settled there. This is no doubt largely due to the opening up of Peel River Estate, which contains some of the finest wheat lands in the State. The district is well known for its dairying and malting barley. The educational department has kept pace with the agricultural development in Tamworth, and a good district school, with newly established and well-equipped buildings for science and manual training. Technical classes are accommodated in a roomy building in the main street. The residents of Armidale are enthusiastic in regard to the matter. A deputation waited upon Mr. Turner during his visit, and urged the erection of a technical school. The present rented buildings are inadequate for the technical classes in operation. With an enrolment of 360 students, urgent steps are necessary to provide complete accommodation. Mr. P. Fletcher, K.C., and Mr. Blackett, instructed by Messrs. McCay and McCoy, appeared for the plaintiff, and Mr. Wise, for the defendant.

The Master of Health of the State offered the Minister for Education a one-half interest of land adjacent to the Town Hall, free of cost, for a technical school. The present rented buildings are inadequate for the technical classes in operation. With an enrolment of 360 students, urgent steps are necessary to provide complete accommodation. Mr. Ferguson, instructed by Mr. Reginald Sullivan, for the defendant. This was an action brought by George Andrew Tracy Foss Co-operative Company, Ltd., to recover compensation for slanders, alleged to have been uttered against him by defendant.

The plaintiff, in his affidavit, stated that he was a member of the Imperial Mounted Rifles, raised for South Africa, and was in command of a company of 100 men.

At that time he was a lieutenant in the 3rd Imperial Mounted Rifles, raised for South Africa, and was in command of a company of 100 men.

The document would be of no effect but for the fact that testator was on active service at the time of his death. The writer was then adjured so that the next of kin might be represented, and Mr. Tracy, informed that he had died. The only question was whether the will was operative under the Wills Act after testator had died.

The argument is not yet concluded.

A UNIVERSAL RELIGION.

CLAIMS OF CHRISTIANITY.

ITS PRESENTATION TO OTHER RACES.

LONDON, June 20.

At the International Missionary Conference at Edinburgh the Bishop of Birmingham (Dr. Gore) presented the report of the third commission. The report stated that the gulf between Eastern and Western would never be bridged if Christianity was presented to the native imagination as an alien religion.

A universal religion meant a common message, such as was embodied in the Apostles' Creed, and recorded in the Bible, but its real catholicity could only be realised as each people brought forward some different aspect, namely, a Christianity with indigenous colour and character.

It was shocking that native preachers and teachers were so largely trained by the aid of names symbols found useful in America and England. The 30 Articles of the Church of England and the Westminster Confession of the Presbyterian Church did not belong to the universal substance of Christianity. Native literature and national movements ought to be studied in order to find aspects of religion likely to be seized by the minds of natives.

First-rate educators were so few that routine swallowed up their energies, and they had no time for proper spiritual work.

"There are several woodblocking contracts," said Dr. Perry, "and I am afraid it will be best to let us go to the City Council's meeting to-night."
